FORT RILEY.

FORT RILEY—founded and built in the early fifties by Major E. A. Ogden, in whose memory was erected a handsome monument, which stands on the highest eminence in the vicinity, just west of the post—lies 135 miles west of Kansas City and  $3\frac{1}{2}$  miles from Junction City. The magnificent fort of today, which is without counterpart, was built on the site of the old fort in 1889 and the succeeding years, as late as 1897. The buildings are all of fine white magnesian limestone, an abundance of which is to be found on the 19,899 acres comprising the military reservation.

Lack of space forbids a lengthy description of Fort Riley and its beautiful surroundings on the banks of the Kansas river, which is formed by the junction of the Smoky Hill and Republican at this point, so the mere mention of a few of the most interesting features will suffice.

The steam plant, with its miles of underground mains is said to be the largest, with a more extensive heating radius than any similar plant in the United States and probably in the world. In the coldest weather all the buildings in the post are comfortably warm.

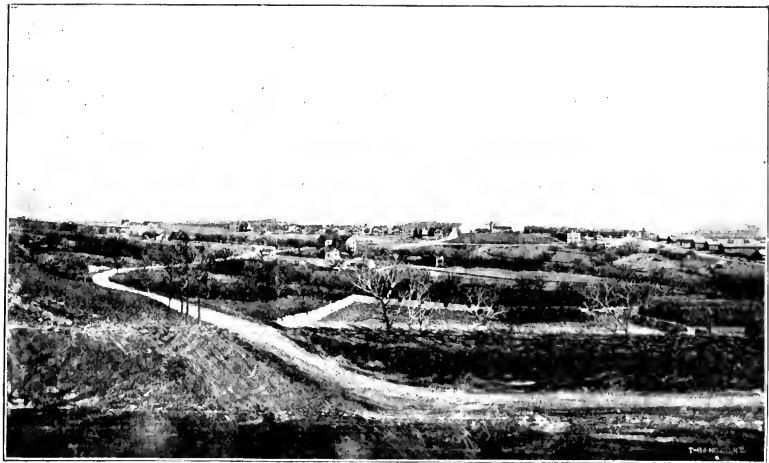

The water works system, with a capacity of a million gallons daily, is one of the most complete in the west. The water, which is very pure, is supplied from twenty wells, bored for the purpose.

The sewerage system and natural drainage is perfect, making this one of the healthiest of forts.

The riding hall is worthy of especial note being one of the largest and most magnificent of its kind.

The mess hall with a seating capacity of about 2,000, is equipped with all the latest steam cooking appliances, and a first-class bakery. The ceiling is the largest self supporting ceiling in the U. S.

To the soldiers of Fort Riley, and to the merchants of Junction City, whose advertisements appear herein, this booklet is respectfully dedicated.
